Perfect Bowling Score.

KANKAKEE, ILL., November 14.—In a four-handed game, Dan Borgan, poolroom owner, bowled a perfect score of 300 on Saturday before a number of business men. The score is the first perfect tally made in a bowling match on local alleys for twenty years. Borgan continued bowling for thirty-nine innings without an error.

Another Football Death

CHICAGO, November 14.—Paul Ruff, eighteen years old full back of the Eastern Illinois Normal School, died here today of injuries sustained Saturday in a football game at the Normal University at Bloomington, Ill.

HORSE SHOW NEXT YEAR

National Association Plans New Features for 1916 Exhibition. Prizes Are Renewed.

NEW YORK, November 14.—Directors for the National Horse Show Association expressed themselves yesterday as well pleased with the 1915 exhibition. Alfred B. MacLay, chairman of the executive committee, made the statement that the members of the committee are so encouraged by the magnificent entry, the enthusiasm of the exhibitors, and the increasing attendance, that they are already planning to make the 1916 horse show greater than ever before.

The exhibition, which will be the thirty-first of the association, will be held at Madison Square Garden at about the usual time. The exact dates have not yet been decided. To enlarge the scope of the show as a national influence in horse breeding steps will be taken to secure the cooperation of the Jockey Club, the American Trotting Horse Society, the American Trotting Horse Association, the recognized hunt clubs, and the draft horse and pony breeding societies in the United States and Canada.

The American Hackney Horse Society which donated $1,200 in two special prizes last Wednesday, has already voted to renew its offering for the exhibition of 1916.

Simply because there was no show at the Garden yesterday it did not mean a cessation of activity among the horsemen. From sunrise until well into the afternoon there was rather lively scrambling in what is one of the most interesting activities in connection with the show—its breaking up. Fourth Avenue was denuded of the road carts, phaetons, dog carts and all other sorts of traps which had stood in orderly rows at the edge of the sidewalk, and a hundred husky men were at work stripping the Garden of the artistic decorations.

ALCO LEAGUE STARTS

Locomotive Employees Get Into Action on Alleys—Prospects for Bowling League Look Bright.

Before a large and enthusiastic crowd, the opening games of the Alco League were rolled on Saturday night on the Palace alleys. The teams, "Smiddle," "that-a-boy," "hold it," "don't split," "resounded above the din of ball meeting ash. Being accused of noise, the cheering, the bowlers were not worried by the numerous vociferous outbursts of their supporters. It was what might be justly termed an auspicious opening, and the league, which has been in formation for some time, has always had the happy faculty of producing winning teams, was in an ecstatic mood. It looks like the Alco League will have a long season.

BAKER LOST TO O. B.

Home Run King Likely to Remain With Upland Team—Millionaire Pays Salary.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., November 14.—J. Franklin Baker, former star of the Athletics, may not play major league baseball this season, but he is likely to again spend the year in farming and play with Upland, of the Delaware County League. This was gleaned from a special made last night by President Horton Weeks, of the Delaware County League, at the annual banquet of the Interborough League, held in the Continental Hotel, President Weeks in his address said.

"Frank Baker is wanted in the Delaware County League next year. Only to-day John G. Crozer, the millionaire philanthropist, through whose liberality the league has been organized, was possible, stated that he was willing to pay the salary of the 'Home Run King' again next year. Mr. Crozer stated that he is hopeful that Baker will again captain and play with the Upland club, and has authorized Manager Miller to sign him for 1916.

"Last season Baker's presence on the Upland club just doubled the gate receipts of that club over those of the previous year, and proved as well of immense benefit to the other league clubs. He was the principal factor in making the Delaware County League one of the most successful in the country at a time when minor leagues from the Atlantic to the Pacific complained of a bad, and in many cases, a disastrous season.

"Since the close of the present season Baker has purchased a new farm in Trappe, Md., making three that he now owns, and also a new seven-passenger touring car. He is considering going into farming on a more extensive scale will have any bearing on his baseball plans for the coming year."

ANOTHER FORM UPHEAVAL

THEY CONTINUE TO FEATURE EASTERN GRIDIRON SEASON

'Cornell, by Its Great Comeback Against Washington and Lee, Shores Honors With Pittsburgh.

Football form upheavals continue to feature the waning Eastern gridiron season. Yale, desperate at the manner it had been defeated by smaller colleges this fall, turned in savage fury on Princeton and ripped apart the best football machine developed in the East in many years. At Syracuse, the undefeated and unscored on Colgate eleven, was massacred by Syracuse, while the Cornell combination went only saved itself from defeat at the hands of Washington and Lee by a great rally in the closing half of the contest, after the Southern had gained a long lead. Brown, which recently beat Yale, succumbed to Harvard.

No Eastern gridiron classic in many years has furnished the football upset that marked the annual game between Yale and Princeton. The Tigers invaded New Haven with a splendidly coached eleven, while a band of players, who, man for man, were equal to any among the bigger institutions, but lacking the splendidly coached forward making of a perfect gridiron unit. Yet when the two eleven met it was the four-time defeated Elis who showed the same amount of strength and fighting spirit which had enabled them to win the Nassau machine.

It is true that Princeton did not show the same amount of strength and speed that has marked some of her earlier battles, and that Yale was benefited by what breaks there were in the game, but the fact remains that it was a remarkable improvement after two weeks of coaching under Shevlin that swept the Tigers off their feet.

While the game had no bearing on the struggle for the so-called Eastern championship, the overthrow of Colgate by Syracuse removed a more important contender and left the field occupied solely by Cornell and Pittsburgh.

While winning from the strong Washington and Lee eleven after the star Southern team, which has not lost a game in two years, had secured what appeared to be a safe lead, Cornell demonstrated that its rise to the topmost pinnacle of gridiron fame is based on the finest kind of all-around football ability. When the three combinations awoke to find itself slipping behind it uncovered a brand of almost perfect attack and defense, aided by a long long run, soon carried Cornell away from its plucky rival.

Harvard's victory over Brown furnished further evidence of the Eastern supremacy against Yale, since Cornell substitutes were used almost exclusively.

In the other of the more important contests, the competing eleven, according to form, Pennsylvania and Michigan battled to a scoreless tie. Both the Army and Navy teams emerged as victors from their week-end games, but neither was called upon to meet an opponent of more than ordinary caliber.

CORNELL TO CUT EXPENSES

Athletic Costs Too Much, Faculty Committee Says—Number of Recommendations.

ITHACA, N. Y., November 14.—Right at the time when Cornell for the first time in her history has forced her way to the top of the football heap a sensational move was made by the Faculty Committee in recommending the cutting of expenses. The committee, which has been in session since the beginning of the season, has recommended that the number of athletes be reduced to 100, and that the number of games be reduced to 10. The committee also recommended that the number of coaches be reduced to 10, and that the number of officials be reduced to 10.

Football supporters feel the committee singled them out particularly in urging the abolition of the outdoor trip to Atlantic City, preceding the Thanksgiving Day football game. Alumni throughout the country are not much of the opinion that Cornell has been building a summer residence in Buenos Aires.

Report from Columbus has it that Business Manager Bobby Quinn of the Columbus club is in line to fill the job of business manager for the champion Boston Red Sox. Quinn was considered a shrewd manager for the New York Yankees last winter, but he elected to stay in Columbus for the season. If he goes to Boston he will take the active business management of the shoulders of President Joe Lannin, who feels he must devote more time to other interests.

Dick Carroll, business manager of the Brooklyn Federal League club, has received a postal card from Manager John Gangel, who is making a transcontinental tour in a Hudson "54," thought of going to the Grand Canyon, Arizona, where he and his family have a descent of the river below a descent of 6,572 feet, representing a walk of fourteen and a half miles. Gangel says his daughter is the first girl who ever walked to the bottom of the canyon. Gangel and his party are due in San Francisco on Monday from where they will embark to Honolulu. Gangel has made the statement, has experienced only one blowout in the 3,706-mile journey to date.

BEATS OUT HIS CAPTAIN

ANNAPOLIS, November 14.—Craig's great running in Saturday's game against Colby is expected to give him the quarter-back position over Captain Miles when the Navy meets the Army on the New York Polo Grounds on November 27. Martin is sure, barring injuries, to start at full back, but the contest yesterday was an invaluable experience for the men.

The Cornellians have not yet been heard from in good shape. A few minor injuries were reported to-day, but the entire team is expected on the field Tuesday.

The coaches are now shaping their plans for the Penn game, in which Cornell hopes to make the most impressive showing of the year.

CORNELL COACHES PLEASED

ITHACA, N. Y., November 14.—Cornell's great "come back" in the Washington and Lee game yesterday has satisfied the coaches that their team has met the supreme test, and they regard the contest yesterday as an invaluable experience for the men.

Virginia and Washington and Lee Not Considered in Section—Purely Sectional Matter.

ATLANTA, GA., November 14.—Vanderbilt's decisive victory yesterday over Auburn is regarded by football experts as giving the Commodores the title to the championship of the Old Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association territory Georgia Tech, the remaining contender for honors, was outplayed here yesterday by the University of Georgia, and held to a scoreless tie. Auburn previously had defeated Georgia.

Virginia is not included in the intercollegiate territory, nor is Washington and Lee, which until yesterday had been undefeated for two years. But both are Southern colleges, and must be considered in the All-Southern championship. Virginia has defeated Vanderbilt, but Washington and Lee has played none of the big Southern schools, its most important game against such institutions being the annual Thanksgiving clash with the North Carolina A. & T. college.

Vanderbilt outplayed Auburn yesterday in every department of the game. The Plainsmen's goal line had not been crossed in two years, and heretofore they had had a touchdown always was good for a touchdown, while Georgia made two touchdowns and scored again on today's field goal. Auburn could not score.

Little can be said of the Georgia classic—the Georgia-Georgia Tech contest. The Red and Black kept the play almost entirely in Tech territory, and the muddy field led to many fumbles. Tech made only two first downs, while Georgia made eight.

The overwhelming victory of Georgia came as a surprise. The Aggies had shown improved form recently and a close score was expected. Virginia, the conqueror of Vanderbilt, playing many substitutes, won over South Carolina at Columbia, by a 20-0 score. The Virginians generally have been expected to overtake the South Carolinians, but apparently the coaches were taking no chances of injuring star players with the North Carolina game facing Virginia on Thanksgiving Day. Stuart, a Virginia player, who had been out of the game with a broken hand, played a game yesterday.

The University of Tennessee team, crippled by its Vanderbilt game, two weeks ago, lost a hard contest to the Mississippi Aggies.

North Carolina University won by an unexpected 14-0 score over Davidson, while Alabama, with two regulars out, went down to defeat before the heavy Texas team.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

Jimmy Viox of the Pittsburgh Pirates, harkening to the advice of Fred Clarke, has bought him a farm. It is a ranch of only eight acres, but it is enough for a chicken run, and that is what Viox intends it for. The new purchase is near Lexington, Ky., and Jimmy paid about $200 for it. He plans to build a home, and says he has digested a few poultry journals, being to bear the egg and chicken market.

Somebody says that Comiskey saved Eddie Collins from going to the Federal League by purchasing him from Connie Mack. Eddie had no more thought of going to the Federal League, but he was building a summer residence in Buenos Aires.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC UNION IS ASKED TO AMEND RULE

Dr. Hazen, of Richmond, to Attend Meeting in New York—Eight for Presidency.

When the Amateur Athletic Union meets in annual session this afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York, a constitutional amendment making the cadets of West Point and Annapolis eligible to compete without registration in games sanctioned by the union, will be proposed. It will be offered by Dr. C. M. Hazen, president of the Richmond Amateur Athletic Federation, and representative of the South Atlantic Association. The amendment was offered last year and was rejected. It is thought that it will have little chance to go through at this meeting.

The annual convention will meet this afternoon and it will probably be a lively session. A successor will be named to President Alfred J. Lill, Jr., of Boston. For some time it seemed that George Turner, of Baltimore, was the logical man to succeed Lill. William Humphries, of San Francisco, withdrawing as a candidate, but now it seems more opposition than had been looked for.

In a certain faction in New York the general impression prevails that the Amateur Athletic Union, formerly of Los Angeles, has been manifested in the last few days. Simons stands a good chance of winning if George F. Pawling of the Middle Atlantic Association pulls the big vote he expects. Pawling is sure to be a candidate, unless the trouble which has arisen within his association, the past four years, and there are indications from the board of directors to give up his ambition to become leader of the Amateur Athletic Union.

The presidency never has been held by a Philadelphian. Philadelphia, Washington, New York, Boston and Chicago each have had representation in the office. California has taken quite an active interest in athletics in the past four years, and there are indications from the board of directors that a Westerner would bind the Eastern and Western associations of the Amateur Athletic Union closer together.

Pete Carney, of Philadelphia, may stir up things when he goes before the meeting and protests the Middle Atlantic Association's position on the grounds that they were illegally selected, and places before the board of directors his charges, now in the hands of the secretary-treasurer, Frederick W. Rued, that the amateurs are permitted to compete in the amateur ranks when it has been proved they are professionals.

GOVERNORS ARE ASKED TO REPEAL

Another matter which the governors will have to decide is the appeal for a new trial by Abel Kiviat and Harry J. Smith. Athletic followers expect Smith and Kiviat will receive little more consideration from the board of directors than they have received. The case will be closed so far as the A. A. U. is concerned if the governors do not act.

The national championship committee will take definite action on the request of Newark to hold the outdoor title meetings next year in connection with its 25th anniversary. The junior and senior track and field championships have practically been allotted to Newark, but the annual meeting, which Newark will ask for practically every championship that the Amateur Athletic Union will have to offer next year.

It is by no means certain that the indoor championships will be contested in New York, local athletic enthusiasts will watch with interest the action taken with regard to the outdoor title meetings. Secretary Rued is inclined somewhat toward sending the "indoors" to Boston or some other city where they could possibly be made profitable. He does not believe the games received the proper support from New Yorkers.

The recommendation from the Metropolitan Association that Charles Boughton, the Newark athlete, be registered with the National Amateur Athletic Union, is now before the Registration Committee. Boughton, who was a champion intercollegiate distance runner at the time he was declared ineligible for membership in the Amateur Athletic Union, is now a student at the University of Pennsylvania. He was declared ineligible for working as a playground attendant in Newark.

Reports will be presented by the various committees and officers of the union. Few, if any, radical changes are to be recommended, but it is expected that definite action will be taken by the board of governors, which was recommended last year. The South Atlantic Association delegates will again ask to have the Amateur Athletic Union constitution amended so that the cadets of West Point and Annapolis shall be eligible to compete without registration in games sanctioned by the union. The officers of the South Atlantic Association, in whose territory the Naval Academy is situated, feel that the Amateur Athletic Union should allow the midshipmen to compete in sanctioned meetings when their entries are accompanied by certificates signed by the officers in charge of athletics at their school, vouching for their amateur standing.
